Module III – Communicability of Spirits

Steps of the Spirits' enlightenment through dialogue

TOPIC 3

Initial step

To listen to the Spirit and to identify its main difficulties

Intermediary step

To enlighten and to support the Spirit fraternally

Final step

completion of the dialogue

Initial Step: to listen to the Spirit and to identify its main difficulties

Let the Spirit speak, gathering information, identifying problems and individual characteristics.

Ask clarifying questions if necessary, if you cannot identify the spirit's main problem.

Maintain the focus on the presented problem is the best way to help

Pay attention to fixed ideas that may hinder or prevent the dialogue

The doctrinal enlightenment (3 steps) should not exceed the time of 60 minutes, according to the booklet Guidelines to the spiritist center, of FEB / CFN, based on the guidelines provided by enlightened spiritual benefactors

Intermediary step: to enlighten and to support the Spirit fraternally

Once the dialoguer understands the problems of the Spirit the doctrinal clarification per se starts

The dialogue should not be long nor too short. (Andre Luiz in the book Disobsession recommends up to 10 minutes)

Avoid multiple psychophonic communications at the same time

Do not induce, directly or indirectly, the mediums to receive this or that entity.

Final Step: completion of the dialogue

After the allotted time for the dialogue and the assistance, the dialoguer proceeds to the end of the talk, leading the communicant Spirit to disconnect.

- indicative sentences of farewell
- inducing sleep
- forwarding to the spiritual benefactors present
- saying a prayer
- provide respectful reasons that force the removal such as:
  - ✓ energy expenditure of the medium and the consequent mental overload
  - ✓ need for other spirits to communicate
  - ✓ time has run out, but other opportunities will come
